

Trinity Hall, Cambridge
3-4 January 2013

PROVISIONAL PROGRAMME: TIMES AND ORDER ARE SUBJECT TO REVISION!

Thursday 3 January

1230 Bar open for drinks and sandwiches

1400 Giuseppe Pezzini. University of Oxford. Inerudita adhuc novitas: a reassessment of the status of final –s in Latin and its relevance to Romance developments

1430 Eveline Fermon, University of Gent. En busca de los factores subyacentes para la selección de los adverbios locativos aquí/acá y allí/allá. Un estudio comparativo entre el español peninsular y argentino.

1500 James Hawkey, Sorbonne Nouvelle - Paris 3. Meeting language policy objectives: the case of Catalan-medium education.

1530 Business meeting, followed by free time for tea, visits to bookshops, etc. in Cambridge

1730 Xavier Bach. Occitan double plurals

1800 Louise Esher. University of Nottingham. Two formal models for the Gascon verb paradigm.

1830 Richard Ingham, Birmingham City University. Anglo-Norman verbal morphology - how much simplification?

1900 Sherry — 1930 Dinner, followed by

2130 (approx) Chris Pountain. Queen Mary. The genius of Romance.

Friday 4 January

0900 Ian McKenzie. Newcastle University. That-trace immunity in null subject languages: an alternative approach

0930 Sam Wolfe. University of Cambridge. A study of word order in the old Sardinian condaghes

1000 Luigi Andriani. University of Cambridge. Another Romance case of differential object marking: the prepositional accusative in Barese

1030 Coffee

1100 Brian Mott. University of Barcelona. Nuclear stress in Romanian and English: similarities and differences.

1130 Chiara Cappellaro. University of Oxford. Observations on gender and inflexion in the Romance noun.

1200 Ingmar Söhrman. University of Gothenberg. From urbs and civitas to ville and oraș. Lexical and semantic changes in words for city and town in Romance languages

1230 Bar open — 1300 Lunch